

UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI-KANSAS CITY

Budget Rules, Roles and Responsibilities 06/21/2018

I. Introduction

1. This document defines rules, procedures and authorities for allocating, spending and monitoring the UMKC budget (“Budgeting System”). This budgeting system strives to ensure that the Chancellor, Provost, and Vice Chancellor of Finance and Administration (VCFA), together with the Administrative Council (made up of Deans, Vice Chancellors, and Vice Provosts who have fiscal responsibilities) collaborate with faculty in a manner consistent with UM System Collected Rules & Regulations (CRR 140.020) on Financial Planning.¹ Collaborations will ensure that faculty will be “meaningfully involved through regular on-going mechanisms with the total university fiscal situation” to allocate resources in a manner that facilitates achievement of the campus collective goals. The University Budget Committee (UBC), Faculty Senate Budget Committee (FSBC) and Academic Unit Fiscal Committees (AUGC) are the committees in which faculty involvement in university budgeting will occur. Additionally, the FSBC Chair serves as the UBC Secretary.
2. At UMKC, the Budgeting System is a means to promote achievement of the vision, mission and goals of the university; there is one university budget, albeit with several components (such as the Operating Fund, Auxiliaries Fund, and Gift Fund). Our financial currency is only of value because it supports our university priorities.
3. The UMKC Budgeting System will be designed to align the goals, strategies and resources of the various units with the overarching goals, strategies and resources of the university. It will promote transparency, empower Deans and Vice Chancellors (hereafter collectively referred to as “unit leaders”), and provide as much stability and resiliency as possible in the midst of changing circumstances. Both data-based formulae and elements of Chancellor discretion involved in the determination of resource investments will be published and will be as simple as possible, without sacrificing the rigor needed to maintain alignment with the university mission; will minimize, as much as possible, risks of unintended adverse consequences; and will provide support for each unit to conduct its work. The resource investment model will reward revenue generation (e.g. through enrollment growth, certificates programs) to the extent possible with available resources.
4. Per CR&R 140.020 and as delineated in “III. Roles and Responsibilities,” resource investment will be planned with input from advisory committees that include faculty representatives who will receive “all relevant data” including the “regular and timely provision of forecasting data ... related to programs and to anticipated fiscal resources.” The appropriate unit will provide the relevant data to those advising committees in a timely manner in advance of meetings.
5. Clear communications and collaborative conversations are critical to ensure an appropriate balance between adaptability in decision-making and maintaining quality/specificity of budget detail. Communication and collaboration are the responsibility of all who have fiscal responsibilities. The specific responsibilities for communicating are delineated in “III. Roles and Responsibilities.” The appropriate unit will provide the information and relevant data required for collaborative conversations to those who have fiscal responsibility in a timely manner in advance of those conversations.
6. As included in the Higher Learning Commission accreditation standards, program quality and student learning will be linked to budget resources and budget planning.

¹ See https://www.umsystem.edu/ums/rules/collected_rules/financial/ch140/140.020_financial_planning.

7. Quality academic program delivery and excellence in discovery/scholarship will serve as major considerations when making budget decisions.

II. Budget System Policies

1. Authority over, and responsibility for, the budget rests with the Chancellor, who is the ultimate decision maker on fiscal matters for the University.
2. Unit leaders are stewards, rather than owners, of university resources, having the financial obligation to act on behalf of, and for the benefit of, the university when managing its resources.
3. All members of the university community, individually and collectively, are accountable for the financial results of the university and must engage together in disciplined fiscal management at all times, reviewing and eliminating non-essential services and waste.
4. At the end of each fiscal year, financial performance is to be balanced at campus and unit levels in the context of the originally approved budgets, with actual revenues being equal to or greater than actual expenses.
 - a. All university leaders with fiduciary responsibilities are accountable for achievement of approved budgets. Performance against an approved budget will be evaluated on an ongoing basis and as part of annual individual performance appraisals/review processes. Meeting and managing budgets will be considered in renewal of administrative responsibilities. A leader may be removed from his/her position for failure to fulfill these fiduciary responsibilities. Other consequences of not balancing budgets and/or following proper procedures when budgeting include developmental support and development of a unit repayment plan approved by the VCFA in consultation with the Provost (for units in Academic Affairs) and approved by the Chancellor.
5. Positions with grant funding: Positions, academic or otherwise, that are hired solely to support grant work and funded 100% from grants are not guaranteed a position at the conclusion of the grant. Appointment letters should reflect this clearly.
6. One-time, non-recurring budget savings that arise during the course of the budget year may not be reallocated by unit leaders for a recurring expense. Unit leaders must notify the Provost (for units in Academic Affairs) and VCFA when material funds budgeted and approved for one strategic purpose are re-allocated for another strategic purpose during the budget year.
 - i. When significant decreases to budgeted resources occur after the annual budget has been adopted as a result of a potential financial crisis (CRR 140.020 Section 1.1), unit leaders may be asked to "re-budget" and submit new plans. Those plans will be reviewed by the Chancellor, Provost and VCFA, and shared with the UBC Secretary (aka FSBC Chair) in an advisory capacity. The revised budget will be considered the benchmark for subsequent performance measurement. This re-budgeting process is consistent with the Resource Investment Model Design that "Increases and decreases in state support should be allocated strategically and not 'across the board' on a pro rata basis."
7. Personnel Management Plan
 - a. A personnel management plan will be a core component of an annual budget, and all compensation expenses will be reviewed in detail as part of the budget planning.
 - b. Signatures on a personnel management plan will signal agreement and authorization of all parties for hiring; signatures on a budget indicate the personnel management plan is deemed to be approved for the year.
8. Affiliated organizations that receive substantial university funding and support are subject to all applicable budget guidelines and rules. If they are found to be regularly non-compliant with such guidelines, university funding may be suspended.
9. The UBC will review University Budget Rules, Roles and Responsibilities for effectiveness annually and update and recommend changes to the Chancellor.

10. The UBC will review the Resource Investment Model annually to identify and recommend changes to the Chancellor.

Scope

This policy applies to all University employees who monitor fiscal performance and activity and/or review, approve or process fiscal transactions.

Reason for Policy

This policy establishes the fiscal oversight roles within the University of Missouri.

Policy Statement

It is every employee's responsibility to be a good steward of the resources entrusted to the University and to make decisions in good faith which serve the best interest of the University. This policy outlines the fiscal responsibility for positions across the University of Missouri. University of Missouri Health Care maintains a separate policy for fiscal accountability within its structure.

Primary fiscal responsibility rests at the level where the expenditures are made, with those who initiate programs and make decisions on how to actually implement plan and programs. Financial planning is an interactive process that ultimately results in approval at the upper levels (Board of Curators, president, chancellor, vice chancellor and provost) of board policy statements and plans.

The actual details are decided at the operating level (deans, directors and department chairs) within the constraints of University policies. Ultimate responsibility for ensuring that fiscal transactions are in accordance with approved plans, programs and policies rests at the Dean/Director/Department Chair level. Specific roles are listed under the accountabilities section of this policy.

All individuals with fiscal responsibilities will comply with the University's Code of Ethics statement.
